Each of the men on our ticket is thor oughly able to fill the office for which he is running, and each is a conscientious man of high principles and excellent character.

HOW STAND MR. QUAYS FRIENDS: The position of Senator Quay and his followers in the Republican party in Pennsylvania becomes, each day, more embarrasing. Apparently it is the intention of the Hastings-Martin, etc., combine to kick Mr. Quay and his party straightway and entirely out of the G. O. P. Mr. Quay's opponents say that he has offered to make a compremise with the Hastings people, but was unceremoniously repulsed and shame-fully treated. If this is the fact, any further attempts at compromise either by Mr. Quay or his friends would not only be out of place, but would be An article in the Phila. Press, the combine organ, of last Thursday plainly finish; that Senator Quay is placed in the position of a dependent and a mercenary at every stage of the dispute, and a public order is given that he must not only be defeated but climinated from the Republican power of the State. If the article in the Press accurately sets forth the intentions of Senator Quay's opponents, it becomes evident to intelligent observers that there can be no compromise between the belligerent Republican factions of the State be fore the meeting of the convention. Quay has been placed in a position by his opponent that absolutely forbids any ncession on his part or on the part of his friends, unless he and they are willing to accept the dishonor, and any compromise that he could now make that would retire him as a candidate for chairman of the State committee would be a public confession that his political domination was enthroned whose first article of faith is his destruction. He is thus compelled to accept the battle as a fight to the finish, and it is openly declared by his opponents that they have deliberately chosen to make adjustment

It began to seem a week or two ago as if Mr. Quay's friends in Adams county as if Mr. Quay striends in Adams country, were becoming a little shaky. They showed some signs of a willingness to editor we know. Maybe that's the reashowed some signs of a willingness to fix the thing up, but, if they finally understand that neither they nor their leader will hereafter have part in the Republican party, they will renew their determination to send Quay delegates from this county. The State is against them, certainly, but that need not, and does not, seem to interfere with their loyalty to Mr. Quay.

In this connection the Phila. Times against them, certainly, but that need not, and does not, seem to interfere with their loyalty to Mr. Quay.

"So it was with Lincoln. During the whole of his Presidency, the COMPILER was the unrelenting enemy of his entire policy. It decried him at every step. It derided him personally and politically. It leaded him with epithets. What was the editor's mount.

Aper men have their little jokes with sach other now and then, but there is no joke in the above editorial. There is more of the foolish in it than of common sense. There is more of meanness in it than of truth, and there certainly is no point in it. We don't like to conclude that ugliness dictated it, so we suppose that the bands wanted copy and the editor wrote it thoughtlessly.

A carry final of gratifying common that followed the publication of the fact that Pennsylvania has three of the six leading significant counties in the United States census of 1890 the six leading counties in the values of agricultural counties in the values of the six leading counties in the values of agricultural counties in the values of the six leading counties in the values of agricultural counties in the values of the six leading counties in the value of the six leading counties in the value of the six leading counties in the value of the counties of the six leading counties in the value of the counties of the six leading counties in the value of the counties of the six leading counties in the value of the counties of the counties of the six is so the six leading counties in the value of agricultural products and the values follow: Lancaster county, Pa., $7,567,790; St. Lawrence county, Pa., $5,563,800; Workester county, Pa., $5,583,800; Workester county, Pa., $5,583,800; Workester county, Pa., $5,583,800; Workester county, Pa., $5,411,370; Colasa county, Cal., $7,357,350. Lancaster county has long been known as the richest farming county in America and the census proves it. Lancaster leads by great odds in the value of farm lands, although it is only one-third as large as Lawrence county, N. Y.

The Respective of the value of the value of the value of farm lands, although it is only one-third as large as Lawrence county, N. Y.

The Respective of the values of the value of e must ask the editor to tell us more explicitly what he is trying to say. If Cal.,

the imputation is that the Computer changes its mind every forty or lifty rears we must say that the Star con-value of larm lands, although it is only the codes to us a first-class record.

"COLONEL' GILKESON'S marked bravery and gallant services," says the Phila. Inquirer, "are fully set forth in Bates' History of Pennsylvania Volume of Pennsylvania Volume of Pennsylvania was threatened by invasion. Governor Curtin called for 50, 400 militiamen to serve during the mergency. The regiment was organized September 17, 1862, and was mustered out of service on the 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th of the same month. Gilkeson was appointed one of eight corporals, and if he served until the last day he wore the stripes for just eleven of the interval and the control of the same month. The regiment never saw a rebel or heard a rebel gun."

NOW A REPUBLISHED OF THE WAR OUT

Gettysburg, Tuesday, Aug 6, 1895.

Not long since several farmers from various sections gave their opinions on the output of feeding straw through The Rural New Yorker An Illinois farmer said that now all the oats straw and most of the wheat straw is carefully stacked. The long swing stacker in use enables three men to put up an immense semicircular stack 25 or more feet high with the greatest ease, and all of the chaff, chess and light grain that is blown out goes into the stack When the stack 15 not in a yard or small pasture, many farmers inclose it with a temporary fence and pard cattle, horses and pigs about it all winter The horses and cattle eat part of it and trample the rest down, converting the whole into a mass of coarse manure, which is afterward hauled out and spread on pastures or corn ground While yarded about a stack of straw like this the cattle and horses are given one feed a day of corn fodder with the ear left on, and the pigs

Some farmers put a fence around the stock and feed the straw to the animals in large feed rucks placed just outside the fence After the stock have picked a rackful over, the coarser stuff remaining is thrown out to be trampled down and a new supply takes its place. With one feed of shock corn a day, both horses and cattle winter nicely on straw Sheep also do well on good bright straw with one feed of mixed oats and shelled corn a day. It wouldn't pay here to chop and steam the straw, and the stock eat very little more of it when dampened and mixed with ground feed of any kind A farmer writing from New York "Stock will eat more straw and there will be less waste when it is chop ped and moistened with water and sprinkled with meal Whether this would be profitable to the farmers would depend upon his supply of other feed and the amount of labor at his command. Were it necessary to econo mize straw and feed more grain, it would undoubtedly pry to steam and moisten

A virginia correspondent wrote on the subject as follows 'Straw should be well put up in a rack, running east and west in pens just high enough so that cattle can reach the straw and not tramp on it. Cartle even a straight of the straw and not tramp on it. tramp on it. Cattle over 2 years old will commence eating it freely before the grass is gone, and will do well on it with one feed of fouder or hay each day If hauled out and scattered about they will not eat it Cattle frequently get the chaff in their eyes, and this causes some inflammation, but they soon get well For milk cowe, good bright straw, cut and steamed with chop over it, is the very best of food -even better than most hay Stock eat it well and will increase their milk. One bushel of shelled corn. two of oats and one of 13e ground together, then wheat bran and a little cot tonseed meal added make the best mixture to use over straw, bay or folder, or to be fed dry, I ever tried "

Against Blind Bridles.

When blind bridles were first in reduced as part of the furnishings with which to guide and control the boise's movenents, a valid reason no doubt existed for their use and adoption but why, in the light of long experience for the best the consumers the advantage of the agents. the consumers the advantage of the agents fees in insking their purchases. But this circumstance, important as it may seem, falls far short of overbalancing the dangers incurred and the injuries inflicted upon the eyes of the horse by the use of blinds, writes George Jackson, in the Lac Stock Journal High strung and fractious horses, accustomed to blinds, nearly always become unmanageable if an open bridle be put upon them or by accident the blinds get misplaced while being driven, and serious ailments to the eyes have been traced to misfitting and badly adjusted blinds. The horse's comfort in a great many cases is sadly interfered with, by carelessness in fitting the blinds to the head, they being often so close as to shut out his vision almost entirely A partial glimpse of an object in the road that would seem harmless to him frequently causes a fright to the horse, that ends in a runaway; open bridles afford an unob structed view of surroundings, and horses accustomed to wear them rarely shy while being driven, unless indeed their eyes are impaired, which would constitute a sufficient demand for their

The time to begin the discontinuance of the use of blinds is when the horse is young and being trained to work, they should never be put on him It would probably be unsafe in many cases to make the change with a high spirited horse, or one that is nervous and that had always been accustomed to them, with many, however, it would make no difference, unfamiliar sights and a full view of surrounding objects would cause some horses to become unmanageable, while to one that had always been accustomed to the free use of his eyes, such things as are unusual and would otherwise startle him, would not be noticed; this of itself is an imperative reason for abolishing the blinds Upon young berses intended for the road and family driving, the farm or the team, they should never be used at all, between the two evils-the check rain and the blind bridle — undesirable consequences in view, the latter is far the worst in its results, for while the abuse of the much-talked about check rem is greatly to be deplored and its use is often linked with cruelty and want of judgment, some such arrangement is absolutely required in driving horses that are hable to stumble and for keeping them out of mischief while standing The humane use of the check rem is indispensible in many cases, for blind bridles there is no earthly need or ex-

OATS AND BARLEY

One way to save bay is to sow a mixels of oats and one of barley for seed, to be cut and fed green during October and November, it not being injured by frost to any extent, and serving as an that season, but keeping the cows up in their flow of milk and in good condition Without these green crops a fell drouth often makes it necessary to resort to feeding hay even while the weather is warm enough for cattle to be in the pasture.—Ohio Farmer.

Cigarette smoking is one of the evils which is fast increasing among the young men of the period. It is an age of nervous ness, nervous excitement increase weak ness and debitity is the growing malady of the day. Minds are over burdened in school the pleasures of social life follow business worry, intemperance, excual excesses or abuses over exerte the already enfechled nerves and result in exhausing diseases or drains upon the nervous 53 stem. It's a drag and a handleap to every young man to be a sufferer from nervous debility or weakness, low spirits, irritable temper impaired memory, loss of will power and the thousand and one derange ments of mind and body that result from perincious habits often contracted through ignorance of mature's laws. The wreck of constitution, weakened vitality and manly power, following such habits would be a sorry ending to life in this splendid age of learning and labor. It will fast become an age of unsettled brains and shattered nerves unless our young men know themselves. To reach reclaim and restore such tinfortunates to health and happiness is the aim of the publishers of a book of 136 pages written in plain but chaste language, on the nature symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. This book will be sert sealed, in plain envelope on receipt of this no tree with ten cents in stamps for postage Address, World's Dispensary Medical As sociation Buffalo N Y.
